Superstitious fans in Cincinnati are said to be pulling for the Reds to lose their opening game this season. Sounds strange, doesn't it? One would think that the Cincy bugs would want Herzog's men to win every game they possibly can's but they figure that the Reds will be better off in the end if they take a walloping for a starter. Here's why, according to Bill Phelon, if of the Cincinnati Times-Star:

"Year after year the Reds have had the Cubs for their opponents on opening out of the Chicago team; the Reds got away to a brilliant start, held a percentage of 1000 for a few minutes to be the invariable rule that the Reds, have looped the loop or thrown a back somersault, alighting soildly upon their left ear. Since it seems to be the invariable rule that the Reds, when they win the opening game, fetch up somewhere in the swamp, are only the old adage of 'a bad beginning makes a good ending' might seem applicable. Wherefore, sundry rooters, though loyal and devoted adherents of the team, are anxious to see them lose the curtain raiser—if they'll only contained the con Evansville, fnd., Feb. 22.—Jack Law, 35, formerly one of the leading players in the Southern League, and of late years sporting writer for Memphis and New Orleans newspapers, died at the home of the team, are anxious to see them lose the curtain raiser—if they'll only win right along from that day after-wards."

ROUGHNESS MARS GAME

After three weeks of happiness in the Capital with the thought that Washington would again be the possessor of a South Atlantic champion, the joy came to an end vesterday afternoon at the Areade, as the Catholic University quint, in whom the hopes had been placed, went down to defeat before the Washington and Lee five, 24 to 18, in one of the dirtiest games ever staged in the city. At the beginning of the game the local collegians had a slight edge on their opponents, but toward the end of the first half the Lexington boys obtained the lead and remained in that position during the rest of the game, being tied but once. At the time during the initial period when things were going good for the Brooklanders, Capt. Young, of the Virginia quint, caged a basket three-quarters the length of the court, which was followed Sosely by one of the same character by Johnny Barrett, of football fame, and at the end of the first period the Washington and Lee team had a three-noist margin on their convenents.

termission, the teams again battled for supremacy, bringing into play some of the tactics exhibited by Freddy Welsh and his copartners in the roped arena, but owing to the fact that only one man officiated it was impossible to see all. Barrett and Pierotti, of the visiting team, were chief offenders in this respect, and-only in order to protect themselves did the Brookland men return the punishward with vigor and that from present prospects the affair will be one of the most successful ever held. The major portion of the work of preparing for the meet already had been done at the time that Prof. McNemar's resignation was re-established.

During the last six months Prof. NeNemar had obtained pledges from enough students to insure the resumption of football this fall.

On top of this when his work has only

HARD GRID SCHEDULE FOR MARYLAND AGGIES

College Park, Md., Feb. 22.—Capt. Ober-lin, of the Maryland Agricultural Col-lege football team, will have his 1916 schedule ready for annour a few weeks. The Aggies have a most pretentious list this season, in fact, it is doubtful if any college in Maryland has a more difficult one.

will, or course, be played with western Maryland, St. John's, Washington Col-lege and Hopkins. Catholic University will be met in a game which will prob-ably prove a thriller because of the bit-ter rivalry that has aprung up between the two schools during the last few years Also there is a possibility of the farm ers' and Georgetown trying conclusions Gallaudet, the Aggies' old rivals, are booked for a same during the early part in arranging a game with Virginis Military Institute eleven at Cél-lege Park, the latter part of the season. This contest is expected to prove one of the most attractive of the season being the first time the two school ever met at the gridiron game. And he schedule is Dickinson College, one of the most formidable elevens in that State of crack elevens—Pennsylvania.
